

Reimbursement of costs in trial proceedings and enforcement proceedings

Abstract

This thesis 'Reimbursement of costs in trial proceedings and enforcement proceedings' describes and evaluates selected concepts concerning the reimbursement of costs in trial proceedings and enforcement proceedings. The primary goal is to describe the essence of reimbursement of costs and to answer this common question: "Who shall pay it in the end?" The thesis is divided into three parts.

The thesis starts with an introduction where the author sets goals of the thesis and methods of scientific work to compile and process the assigned subject. Furthermore, there is a brief definition of the distinction between reimbursement of costs and payment of costs. The part is concluded with a description of the goals of costs in proceedings and types of systems of reimbursement of costs.

The first part of the thesis is concerned with reimbursement of costs in trial proceedings. The first chapter starts with reimbursement of costs in trial and adversarial proceedings. This chapter is the most extensive. It consists of a description of reimbursement of costs and types of costs. There is also a dedicated part to decisions and remedies concerning the reimbursement of costs. The second chapter is concerned with reimbursement of costs in trial and non-adversarial proceedings. This chapter is divided into three subchapters according to the system of reimbursement of costs in acts about special court proceedings. The author briefly describes types of costs and basic institutes of reimbursement of costs. The most extensive chapter is dedicated to estate proceedings.

The second and the third part are concerned with reimbursement of costs in enforcement proceedings. The second part is divided into three chapters: enforcement proceedings on the basis of the enforcement code, enforcement proceedings on the basis of the administrative code and enforcement proceedings on the basis of the tax code. The author briefly describes types of costs and basic principles of reimbursement of costs.

Work is ended with a conclusion where the author summarizes basic institutes of reimbursement of costs.